

Let's Talk Turkey.

Thanksgiving is around the corner, and that means turkey. But guess what? We ask that you DO NOT donate fresh or frozen turkeys to the Food Bank or our member agencies for food safety reasons.

That's okay! You can still help put a turkey on someone's table. We suggest you purchase gift cards at a local grocery store in small denominations — $10 or $15 — and give them to the food pantry in your town. Then, they can give them to their clients, who can use them to buy turkey or whatever food item they need most.

You can also make a donation to the Food Bank to help us keep the shelves stocked at food pantries. Donate online at www.rifoodbank.org or call us at 401-942-6325.

And of course, we welcome your donations of healthy, non-perishable food every weekday between 8 am and 5 pm. With your help, we can make sure no Rhode Islander goes hungry... all year long.
